

The Magic Christian – Part 1

*Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites!
For ye are like unto whited sepulchres, which indeed appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men's bones, and of all uncleanness.
—Matthew 23:27; KJV*

Since 1976 it seems the real powerbrokers in this nation realized the best way to get a President elected—at least in the days when voters actually elected Presidents—was to cast the candidate in the role of an evangelical Christian.

It is extremely questionable, however, given the duplicity and deceit in which Presidents engage, whether or not a true Christian could hold that office.

Jimmy Carter seemed like the real deal, but he was also was a charter member of the Trilateral Commission—a murky global organization—and was handpicked by founder David Rockefeller and member Henry Kissinger to become President. They also saddled Carter with fellow member Zbigniew Brzezinski as National Security Advisor in case Carter started thinking on his own.

Carter's duty was to commit the treasonous act of giving up the Panama Canal so that the Chinese could come in and manage it, as they have to this very day.

Then we were told that Ronnie Reagan was a Bible-reading Christian, though his wife preferred astrologers, and that got him elected twice.

The spirituality of both Daddy Bush and Bill Clinton isn't even worth mentioning.

However, nothing—absolutely nothing—can top the Wag-the-Dog manufacturing of George Bush's Christianity.

Now, before any of you go apoplectic, ask yourself how you know Bush is a Christian.

You were told he was a Christian, that's how. The broadcast news networks told you. Newspaper and magazine articles told you. Books written by others told you. Maybe your pastors told you.

You've never heard Bush, standing on his own feet, free of a podium, ever speak about scripture or deliver a homily.

And that's because he can't.

Oh, wait, he tried once on October, 26, 2004, on Good Morning America in an interview with Charlie Gibson.

The following is an excerpt from the transcript of the interview. Read the heresy for yourself:

Gibson: Do we all worship the same God, Christian and Muslim?

Bush: I think we do.

Gibson: Does ...

Bush: We have different routes of getting to the Almighty.

Gibson: Does bin Laden? Does Abu Musab al-Zarqawi pray to the same God that you and I do?

Bush: I think they pray to a false god otherwise they wouldn't be killing innocent lives like they have been.

Gibson: Do Christians and non-Christians and Muslims go to heaven in your mind?

Bush: Yes, they do. We have different routes of getting there. But I will, I, I want you to understand, I want your listeners to understand, I don't get to decide who goes to heaven. The almighty God decides who goes to heaven. And I am on m on my personal walk.

Now let's get this straight:

Bush says Christians and Muslims worship the same God.

That is not scriptural. Christians don't worship Allah. Muslims don't worship Yahweh.

Bush says Christians and Muslims have different routes of getting to the Almighty.

That is not scriptural. Muslims do not accept Jesus Christ as Savior and, therefore, cannot claim salvation through the covering of His blood for the life everlasting.

Bush then says Muslims pray to a false God, after stating they worship the same God Christians do. Now besides the appearance of a contradiction (don't Christians worship and pray to the same Lord?), if Muslims pray to a god other than the Lord, they do not know the Lord.

Bush goes on to answer in the affirmative to Gibson's question whether "non-Christians and Muslims go to heaven?" Then Bush restates that Christians and non-Christians "have different routes of getting there."

Both of Bush's answers are not scriptural.

What Bush spewed out on GMA was the pseudo-theological construct currently gaining much strength in the religious communities that are not adhering to the Word. This is the New Age concept of a Universal Christ. And it's a lie straight from the pit of Hell.

Bush's Christianity is as packaged as any advertising campaign. It's the ethereal product of a carnival magic show. And many of you have been sucked into the scam.

And once again I ask you why do you trust mainstream news?

Because it's there when you click on the TV or radio? Or when you open the door in the morning and snatch it off your driveway?

Is that what gives the industry credibility? That it's the only game in town?

And we snicker at the Russians for swallowing Tass and Pravda propaganda?

What's getting ever so much more dangerous, though, is that evangelicals are supporting the administration's plunge into a conflict the military will never win. But as long as we're killing for Christ, it's okay, right?
